Overview of the Region

Summary Infrastructure Map for the Grand Falls-Windsor – Baie Verte – Harbour Breton Region of the Rural Secretariat

The Grand Falls-Windsor – Baie Verte – Harbour Breton region encompasses the Baie Verte Peninsula, Green Bay, and Exploits Valley stretching along the northern coastline from Botwood to Fortune Harbour. The region extends through the interior of the province, reaching as far as Buchans, and concludes on the southern coast bound by the Connaigre Peninsula, Bay D’Espoir area and Fortune Bay North.

Central West’s many assets include a strong aquaculture industry in mussels, salmon and rainbow trout; a fledging tourism industry based on outdoor adventure and local heritage; a robust mining production in copper, zinc, silver and gold; agriculture, extending from traditional root crops to experimental berry and peat moss farms; vigorous craft enterprises creating designer hand bags to long established hooked rugs; competitive manufacturing businesses that fabricate metal components, fiberglass boats, and pharmaceutical compounds; and an aggressive technology sector providing graphic design, computer programming and outsource call services.

Residents of this region have access to an integrated health care and education network. The health care system has embraced a Health Circle model which places a focus on preventative care without losing necessary support for acute and long term care patients. Family Resource Centers and a strong K to12 grade system with public and private post-secondary options are available to the populace. Life long learning, an accepted philosophy, offers adult literacy classes in specific locations throughout the region.

Central West is host to national standard hiking trails, spectacular seascape lookouts, excellent kayaking routes along secluded coastlines, and heritage sites and museums. It is home to the giant squid, the Dorset Paleo-Eskimo rock quarry and Conne River's annual Pow Wow. Central West is also home to Rex Goudie, Shaun Majurnder, Brad Brown, Brian Peckford, Gordon Pinsent, and Natasha Henstridge.

Mandate

The mandate of the Regional Councils is:

- To develop a common, evidence-based understanding of the social, economic, environmental and cultural realities of a region.
- To review key regional economic and social measures (e.g. education levels, demographic trends, health status, income levels, EI usage, economic diversity) and to reach agreement on the priorities for change over the next five years.
- To identify policies and programs which either advance, negatively impact or need to be developed to encourage the necessary change.
- To advance regional cooperation through the sharing of information on and discussion about economic and social measures and to encourage regional partners to take action on and be accountable for those areas within their mandates.
- To nominate an individual to represent the region on the Provincial Council of the Rural Secretariat.

Highlights and Accomplishments

The council was appointed in August 2005. During the remaining seven months of the fiscal year, the council met four times (1 face-to-face meeting and 3 teleconference calls).

The first meeting of the council was held during the Dialogue Day of the Rural Secretariat Marble Mountain, Steady Brook. This meeting served as an introduction to the role and responsibilities of the council. Information presented to the council included data on demographics, education and labour market participation. This meeting also provided an opportunity for the council to meet directly with Cabinet.

In subsequent meetings the council was presented with information on economic, demographic and social challenges and opportunities within the region, and began discussing these challenges and opportunities. A detailed inventory of what the council perceived as regional assets was compiled, as well as a listing of regional strengths.

During this time, council members broadened their understanding of the region as a whole and became more knowledgeable of the linkages between economic, social, environmental and cultural aspects of sustainable development.

Opportunities and Challenges Ahead

Collaboration

Collaboration, as the Council defines it, requires a spirit of cooperation and a willingness to make decisions that will maximize benefits for the whole and not just a piece of the whole. This kind of collaboration provides opportunities and benefits that would not otherwise be possible. It also poses a challenge for individuals to step out of their 'comfort zones' and look at issues differently.

Long-term thinking

Long-term thinking will continue to be both an opportunity and a challenge. Thinking long-term, in the context of the work of the council, provides an opportunity to set a shared goal for the region and to, collectively, define the steps required to achieve the goal. Thinking long-term will also be challenging for individuals and groups when there are immediate issues surfacing within regions.

Citizen Engagement

There is an opportunity through this process for citizens to directly influence public policy development. This citizen engagement process is a purposeful, deliberate process to engage citizens in a two-way conversation with government decision-makers. This process is not limited to the citizens that sit on the councils of the Rural Secretariat, rather there is a process for the broader citizenship to engage in a discussion about the future policy directions of government. The challenge will be to truly open our minds, listen to each other and discuss issues in a respectful manner.

Vision Development

The vision document that is being developed by the Council is not intended to achieve a final form, but rather the intention is for it to continue to be a working document. The vision document will identify what we want to see 15 to 20 years out. Today that time frame is 2022-2027. In five years time, that time frame will be 2027-2032. As priorities are accomplished new priorities will be identified. This will provide an opportunity for us to be informed about what is moving and changing in our regions, where the next opportunity will be and where the next challenge will be. It will also provide a challenge for all involved to have faith in the process and realize that it will take time until these priorities are accomplished. It takes time to make significant change and it is important for this council to remain focused on the future, even in the midst of immediate challenges.
